Area Youths Bring New Sparkle to the Museum

Thanks to the hard work of several youths from the Cedarville area, there is a new and colorful face on the museum’s fire escape and the playground equipment on the museum grounds.

With funds for paint provided by a Four-H grant, the teens and pre-teens (with help from a few adults) brushed, scraped and repainted a full day to complete the job.

These black and white pictures don’t tell the full story: The fire escape is now a rich forest green and the playground swings are bright red orange and the slide is electric blue.

Thanks for a great job!

Restoration of the museum’s second floor north room began in earnest in May with the erection of a wall between the floor’s north and south sections. When completed the north room will seat 80 persons and will be used for programs now held in the first floor south room which can seat only 50 persons. That room will be used to expand the museum. The second floor south room will be used for the storage of museum artifacts. The cost of the second floor work is between $14,000 and $16,000 of which $4,000 is already available. The north room will have heating, cooling, new lighting, storm windows, and restored walls and ceiling. Closed circuit TV will permit handicapped persons to enjoy the programs on the first floor.

Kenneth Bamer, (right) president of the Cedarville Lions Club, presents a $750 check to Jim Bade, president of the Cedarville Area Historical Society. The funds, presented before a large crowd at the May 28 Lions Club bingo session, will purchase a multi-media projector that will be used by the historical society to present Friday night free outdoor movies at the Cedarville Museum during the summer months. The projector will be used for inside programs during the rest of the year. The Lions have an unbroken history of financial support for the historical society.
